DEATH OF SIR TATTON SYKES.

The venerable baronet died on Saturday, at Shelmer Castle, Malton.
Sir Tatton had reached the ripe age of 91, and, though for some months he had been in failing health, he had not been confined to bed until recently, when he suffered from an attack of bronchitis, from the effects of which he never fully rallied.

As a perfect example of the "old English gentleman," Sir Tatton was known and esteemed throughout the country. Frank and manly, kind and generous, he was beloved by all who had the good fortune to make his acquaintance. Politically, Sir Tatton acted with the Conservatives, but he never cared to forsake his agricultural and sporting pursuits for the toils of a Parliamentary life.

Sir Tatton was born in 1772, and married in 1822 the second daughter of Sir William Foulke, Bart., and in the following year succeeded to the title and estate on the death of his brother, Sir Mark Sykes. Sir Tatton was the fourth baronet, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Fryer, born 1826. The deceased baronet, from childhood, took the greatest delight in the rearing of sheep and horses, and to the last enjoyed the highest celebrity for his flock and stud. As a sportsman, he was perhaps one of the most extraordinary that ever lived.
His breeding stud was believed to be the largest in England, numbering upwards of two hundred horses and mares of all ages.

As an owner of race horses, he dates back to 1803, when he won with Telemachus at Middlesex, and up to the age of sixty he continued to keep horses in training for the sole pleasure of riding them himself, Malton being his favourite place for displaying his well-known colours—orange and purple. His last time of riding a winner, his own property, was for the Welham Cup, on Langton Wold, in 1859, on "All heart and no peel"—a name most applicable to the owner as well as to the horse. His feats on horseback were almost fabulous. He invariably rode from Shelmer to London, and back, whenever he had occasion to visit the metropolis —his rule being to ride to London and return as far as Harriet the same night. It is related of him that, when a young man, he started off to ride a race for a friend, and started home again immediately after weighing, the distance being nearly 400 miles. Three years ago he would have gone to El Hamir Pasha's sale, at Cairo, but he could not induce any one to accompany him; he had a desire to stand near the Egyptian auction box, as he had for so many years that of the Messrs. Tatnell, at Doncaster and York. Sir Tatton was never so proud in his life as when he led back into the ring the horse that bore his name, ridden by Bill Scott, after his St. Leger victory, in 1846. This scene was the subject of Hering's picture, painted for the Messrs. Baily. Sir Tatton rode from Shelmer to Hampton Court, to look at the stud of William IV., and there was so pleased with an Arabian that on the day of the sale he repeated the ride, and bought the mare.

As a master of foxhounds, Sir Tatton vied in popularity with any gentleman in England. He kept hounds solely at his own expense until he passed his seventieth year, and only resigned them into the hands of Lord Middleton on the determination of his son not to accept the pack. Sir Tatton continued to show in pink till about two years ago. Sir Tatton, his horse, and his man, Snarry, were all "characters." The servant has been there fifty-two years, and Sir Tatton used to delight in saying that he and his horse were 116 years old.

Sir Tatton was ever an early riser, often being in the saddle before sunrise. He never omitted attending the cattle fairs, and was the first man there at the Malton October of last year. It was no unusual thing, when there was no hunting nor other engagements to sail him away, to find Sir Tatton relieving a laborer on a stone-heap, or in slinging a hedge, while the poor fellow was sent to the castle to enjoy a flagon of ale. As a landlord, a master, and a friend, Sir Tatton Sykes was greatly beloved, and to him may most justly be applied those words of commendation—"He never lost a friend or made an enemy."

QUOTING.—The match between J. Sellars and S. Holland, to quot 51 up, 18 yds distance, with sticking clay ends, 15 lbs weight 9in diameter, for 45, will be played this day (Saturday March 28th), at Breken Cross, near Macclesfield.

THE LATE SIR TATTON SYKES.

SWIMMING.

THE swimming season may be said to have now commenced, as a sure sign of which the Pimlico, Lambeth, and other baths have opened for the season, and, judging from the numbers present at the opening, this summer bids fair to surpass any previous one. The secretary of the London Swimming Club has received the following letter, and we are instructed to say the donor receives the thanks of every member for such a noble and generous gift, and they hope his life may be long and happy, and it is to be regretted that swimming has not more such patrons, for we are sorry to say that great many lives must be saved by acquiring this useful and necessary art, and we are sorry to say they receive very little, except among their own body. It is an awful fact to know that it is calculated that 600 deaths occur annually in the river Thames, between Richmond and Gravesend, of which one-third are in the Pool, learn, or, in the words of Shakspeare, "Stand not on the order of going, but go at once."

[Copy of letter:]

Royal Humane Society—
Office, 4, Trafalgar-square, W.C., March 26th, 1863.
SIR,—With a view to encourage the healthy and manly art of swimming in England, one of the committees of this society has offered a gold medal, of the value of five guineas, to be competed for annually by the different swimming clubs and the public generally (to the exclusion of professional swimmers) either in the Serpentine, Hyde Park, or the river Thames, as may be decided on at some future day. Such being the case, I shall feel obliged if you will make known this fact to the members of your club, and through your local papers, so that you may in a short time be enabled to send me a list of those who feel inclined to compete. The committee of this society have consented to act as umpires in the contest, which will ensure fair-play to all in this competition for the champion prize.—I remain, Sir, your obedient servant, LESLISTON J. H. YOUNG, Sec.

H. W. Underhill, Esq.
On the 13th of April there will be a competition for a prize of one guinea, the generous gift of a gentleman styling himself a swimmer, and as he intends to give one month for seven months, we think the best way to repay him is to practise hard, so as to make a good race, for it will be open to all, and will be competed for at Pimlico baths, under the able management of Mr. Wallace Rummage, the well-known teacher there.

At a meeting of the London Swimming Club, held last Friday, it was resolved that the bath in Endell-street is too small for the increasing members; they will therefore, meet every Friday, at 8 p.m., at Finsbury Baths, after this week; but they intend to have meetings as usual at Endell-street on Monday, at 8 p.m. By making this alteration the committee think the members will have a better opportunity of practising, the bath being nearly double the size of that in Endell-street. The Champion Challenge Cup is expected to be in the hands of the trustees every day, and we hope to see a good race for it this season. The conditions are—To be held three years, and the distance two miles, in the river Thames. When the three trustees took this cup in hand they thought the funds would easily be procured, but they want about 43 subscribers to make up the £20. It is a pity they should be losers, after having given their time to it, besides subscribing liberally to it, forward it.
We shall be glad to receive subscriptions.

NEWCASTLE.—A swimming club, under able management, is being organised in this town. A well attended meeting in furtherance of this commendable object was held at Mr. J. H. Baird's, Star Hotel, Northumberland-street, on the 17th inst., when a prominent committee, composed of local experts, were appointed to superintend the movement.

GRAND DOG SHOW AT CREMORNE.

The high anticipations formed of this legitimately-conducted show have been fully realised. These who have known for years past the energetic skill displayed in his public catering by Mr. E. T. Smith, were already prepared for the extensive arrangements effected to secure a dog show on a scale of grandeur never excelled before in the metropolis. The attractions at Ashburnham Hall during the week have caused an immense crowd of spectators ever since Monday; and, taking it as a whole, there has never been a more marked success, considering the season of the year at which the show has been held. The prizes—amounting to one thousand guineas in cups and medals—were awarded on Monday. The judges were Henry Brown, Esq., Hampstead, chairman; Lord Garvagh, London; Captain Matfield, Wargrave, Henley-on-Thames; Captain Brickman, Baff; J. Willis, Esq., Hammer-smith; F. Maitland, Esq., Bishop's Stortford; J. Worthington, Esq., Haverford; F. Lowe, Esq., Morden, Surrey; J. Walker, Esq., Halifax; J. Talley, Esq., Birmingham; J. Lang, Esq., London; H. Marshall, Esq., Havering-atte-Bell; Edward Pottel, Esq., London; Henry Foster, Esq., Haverhill; and H. Collins, Esq., Birmingham.

The place in which more than 1,200 dogs have found ample accommodation, leaving wide avenues up and down the show for visitors to pass on their formidable tour of inspection, covers the site of the pavilion in which the rhododendrons of former years were exhibited. A great addition has been made to the original area by extending the length as much as 60ft. and annexing a sufficient plot of ground from the adjoining paddock on which to erect a separate shed for the display of toy dogs. The pavilion, being now substantially roofed in, deserves the name of a hall; its full dimensions are 460ft by 100; and the annex measures 300ft by 30. There is a fountain in the centre of the larger building, and the end is thrown into the stereorama of Meuse, Griefs and Telbin, which piece of scenic modelling makes a very pretty termination to the view.

Dogkind in nearly all its various forms—and they are various to an immense and astonishing degree—were here exemplified. Differences more marked, contrasts more striking than those presented by the "Two Dogs" of Robert Burns, abounded in this extremely miscellaneous and yet well-organised show. All the stories of all the dogs about which a tale was ever told, rose before us at the sight of this assembly, and at the sound of their many tongues. There was the Ritz Shepherd's four-footed friend, that howled an accompaniment outside the door when the family within were engaged in sacred harmony; there was the dog that, having been accustomed to attend his master to church for many years, declined to follow his example when he changed his religion, and always left him at a certain point of the road, trotting off to the old place of worship, and meeting him at the spot where the roads converged on their way back; there was the dog that took every penny he received to a baker's shop, but, in spite of his predilection for that particular establishment, would never turn the tradesman so far as to part with the coin till he had been served with a French roll; there were the Mount St. Bernard Dogs, of all the marvellous legends connected with them, there were the many verified instances of the dog's intelligence, fidelity to his master, courage, honesty, patient suffering of hard usage, and, we had almost said, humanity.

There was one promise which we hardly thought could be kept, and which, therefore, we were not disappointed at finding broken. Such an entry as a pack of foxhounds of twenty couples was not to be expected at this time of the year, and Class 1, in the catalogue was consequently a clean bill. The second class, that of fox terriers, was a goodly muster of clean-limbed beasts, of which those exhibited by Mr. Thomas Wootton, of Notts, were the best; this gentleman taking first and second prizes; the third fell deservedly to Mr. Jennings, of Montmorency. From among bloodhounds we missed the lordly magnificent breed. The first and second prizes fell respectively to the two gentlemen we have named; and it would seem that their hounds have both derived some of their excellent qualities from the well-known breed of Lord Faversham. The third best dog in the same class was Mr. A. Bidden's Leo, in whose head and trunk are evident all the signs of pure blood, though the legs of this hound are not good. He was, however, commended by the judges, who have acted with discrimination in awarding the first prize in the class of bloodhound bitches to Mr. Parker for his fine hound Countess. Mr. Boom took the second prize in the same class for his hound Welcome; and Mr. Francis Smith's Duchess was commended.

Of other hounds there were only four; Mr. Geldart took the first, and the Hon. R. O. Hill the second prize for dogs; and the last-named gentleman had an undisputed victory with regard to his two bitches Hanson and Gay Lass. Mr. Beasley's deer-hound Alder is a gigantic dog, bred by Sir John M'Neil; and Cosack, exhibited by Mr. M. T. Ross, of Burton-on-Trent, is hardly inferior in stature and weight. They took severally the first and second prize in this important but not numerously represented class of hounds. The bitches were only two; Sir A. Bidden's being first and Mr. Langdale's second. The bitches made a tolerable appearance; Mr. Harrison's Barrier took the first and Mr. Chapman's Rambler the second prize for dogs; and Mr. Chapman's Ruby the first and Mr. Barlow's Charity the second prize for bitches. That miniature hound with the melodious note, the beagle, had some worthy representatives; Mr. Smith's Sportsman and Mr. Nelson's Stormer taking the first and second prizes. Of the bitches, Mr. Core's Concord was accounted first.

to handicap sweepstakes, at seven birds each; were also shot, and both by Captain Bissell, killing six each time.

Easter Monday, April 6, Mrs. Stones, the proprietress, will give a first single gun to be shot for, free, with a handsomely-chased gold signet for second, at five pigeons each, 25 yds rise, five traps; double guns, with barrels, 11oz shot; single guns 12oz shot; Barber to pull, and the trap decided by time.

BIRMINGHAM.

As yet these grounds assumed a most animated appearance, upwards of a dozen spectators assembling to witness the most interesting match of the season between Messrs. Porter and Picken, two of the crack shots of Birmingham. At fifty linnetts each, for £25 a side, the conditions being 18 yds rise, 100 yds. boundary, 13oz. shot, &c. A very handsome tent was erected on the lawn, and all life and animation was in the air. The match of the kind having attracted as large an amount of interest as the present. Although advertised to commence at 11 o'clock, it was nearly over before the first bird was trapped, a few of innocent of the smell of powder from Mr. Picken's barrel, as well as Mr. Porter's bird. Subjoined is the account of the match.

which it will be seen that this interesting match ended in a tie, both killing five out of fifty. Mr. Picken's thirtieth bird was clear away out of bounds and that gentleman bringing the barrel to his shoulder, the trapper having died the string before Mr. Picken gave the word, or was prepared to fire, upon he naturally claimed another bird, to which Mr. Porter's friends

Mr Holden was the shooter, and Mr. John Torkington, of Wilmslow, was referee. FOOTBALL—BLACKHEATH CLUB V. GENTLEMEN AT MR. KIESER'S.—This was the last match of the season of the above clubs, there was a very good kicking of spectators. The usual preliminaries having been settled, the match commenced at 3.30 p.m. For the first twenty minutes there was some heavy work, and the ball being in constant dangerous proximity to the goal.

At the present day no sense of opinion exists with reference to the purifying and healing powers of a world-esteemed medicament, which gradually cures diseases and removes treatments over which medical skill heretofore had exercised little control. The remedies may be used at any time by either sex. They have for a time enjoyed a great reputation among the ladies for checking pimples, eruptions, and other defects of the skin, and, in the case of men, gray com-
